Course Description

In this course you will be invited to read some of the foundational texts of early social thought. As we read the classical texts of early social theory we will pay particular attention to the way early modern ideas prepared the way for the emergence of sociology in the nineteenth century. We will consider how sociology both developed out of the ideas of the early modern thinkers and, in some cases, how sociology reacted against them. As we consider the details of the arguments of the different writers, we will pay close attention to their main contribution, the development of the idea of “the social” itself.

Essay	30%
Final Exam	30%
3 Pop-Quizzes	15% (each at 5%)

Essay:

There will be one short essay assignment. A handout will be distributed during lecture. Completed papers will be around 8-10 pages in length (250 words per page, 12 point standard font, double spaced). It will be due no later than Tuesday, November 26.

Mid-term Quiz:

There will be a short in-class quiz on Tuesday, October 15. The purpose of the quiz is to give you feedback on your progress in the course.

Exam:

An exam will be scheduled during the regular examination period. It will be closed book and consist of essay questions.

Class Participation:

A high level of participation is a requirement for this class. Your grade for participation will take into account attendance, demonstrated grasp of the weekly reading, participation in small group discussions and participation in lectures. Please bring the readings to class, and be prepared to offer your questions and insights.

3 Pop-Quizzes:

Three classes will begin with a pop quiz. These 20 minute quizzes will consist of short questions on the readings assigned for the week of the quiz and the previous week. The dates of these quizzes will not be announced. Their purpose is to ensure that students actively engage the readings before coming to class. If you are late to a class, you will have less time to do a pop quiz. If you miss a class on a date when there is a pop quiz and you do not have a documented reason, then you will receive a grade of zero for the quiz. If you must miss a class for a valid reason, please speak with me ahead of time.

IMPORTANT COURSE INFORMATION AND POLICIES

Late Policy

Late papers submitted without prior permission will incur a late penalty of 5% of the total assignment per day, including weekends.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Since this course requires you to complete a written assignment, you should familiarize yourself with standards for proper referencing of all materials cited (i.e. books, journals, newspaper articles, internet resources etc.). Students who attempt to pass off someone else's work as their own (plagiarism) will be dealt with through the university policy on academic honesty. Please ensure that you fully understand this policy (see section 3.8 in the calendar).

Class Attendance

Since the grades for this course involve three pop-quizzes, you are advised not to miss class. If you must miss a class for a legitimate reason, please speak with me as soon as possible, preferably before the class.

Special Accommodations

If you develop a prolonged illness or encounter a personal crisis that will impact your participation in the course, please contact me as soon as the problem becomes apparent. Your best strategy for dealing with anything that may prevent you from completing the course in a way that is satisfactory to you is to discuss your concerns with me as soon as they become apparent so that we can work out a way of responding to them.

Other Accommodations

If you are a student with physical, learning, or psychiatric disabilities that require reasonable accommodation in teaching style or evaluation, you should speak with me early in the term so that appropriate arrangements can be made.
